International Day of Radiology - November 8th 2026

Celebrate the International Day of Radiology – 8 November 2026

On 8 November, medical imaging professionals around the world — including here in South Africa — will celebrate the 15th International Day of Radiology (IDoR 2026). This global event recognises the essential role that radiology plays in the patient journey.

On this day, we promote the seismic impact of radiology on medicine – earlier detection, fewer surgeries, and game-changing treatment outcomes. It is an opportunity, not only to promote these benefits amongst our colleagues in healthcare and the public at large, but to reflect on them ourselves as radiologists.

We encourage all RSSA members, radiology departments, and practices to take part in the celebration by sharing how you mark the day:

Please send your photos and a short description of your IDoR 2026 activities to IDoR@myesr.org, or Post on social media using the hashtag #IDoR2026.

Practices are also welcome to forward any photos or details of their celebrations to admin@rssa.co.za and we will upload to our RSSA social media platforms.

Let’s join the global community in celebrating the power of radiology and the professionals who make it possible.
